Notable Posters by Carmel Artists

The designer of the poster for "Kismet," now on display, is Perry Newberry, Carmel's most versatile citizen. In addition to taking part in Carmel's civic life, Mr. Newberry manages to find time to write plays, novels, mystery stories, and an occasional libretto for a comic opera. His opera, "The Beggar of Bagdad," for which Thomas Vincent Cator composed the music, will be produced in Oakland sometime in the fall. Perry is also a skillful artist. He not only designed the Kismet poster, but also cut the wood block.

George Kegg, another California artist of prominence, and the man who carved the marionettes in the puppet play, Cinderella, has also drawn an original poster for Kismet. This poster has been etched on a zinc plate and will be on exhibition next week. Both posters are products of P. J. Gartland on the Pine Cone's new press.

Animal Friends Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Monterey County Humane Society was held at the House of the Four Winds, Monterey, on Wednesday, June 6. Fifteen members were present. The meeting was called to order at 3 o'clock. Miss Maria Antonia Field, presiding.

The principal business before the meeting was the election of officers and a board of directors to serve for the ensuing year. The result of the election was as follows: Mrs. L. J. Dobbins, president; Miss Maria Antonia Field, vice-president; Mrs. Charles Kiernan, treasurer; Miss L. H. Conger, secretary.

Mrs. G. H. Yates, Miss Alice McChesney of Carmel, Mrs. Dave Schwartz, Mrs. Colwell, Mrs. I. B. Bunting of Monterey, Miss Coombs and Miss Kirke of Pacific Grove, complete the board of directors.

The work of the society, while it covers Monterey county, has so far been centered in the Peninsula, owing to the lack of local societies throughout the county. It is hoped that during the coming year it will be possible to increase the scope of the work—helping the smaller communities to organize and assist in the humane work that is being carried on in the state. It is hoped to bring California abreast with some of the eastern states in this purely humanitarian work.

Sunset School to Hold Exercises

The closing exercises of the local public school will be held in Arts and Crafts Hall next Thursday at 2 p. m. The graduates are Virginia Burton, Orlando Belyail, Anne Clute, Vivian Edler, Irene Gould, Teaby Nichols and Walter Edgerton.

The program is to be the children of the different grades and the graduating class. Parents and friends are invited to attend.

Carmelite Returns From Trip Abroad

Mrs. Daisy F. Boetick has returned from her three months' ramble abroad, arriving here last Saturday. She is very glad to be home again, but is enthusiastic when relating the many incidents and observations of her trip. Miss Tilly Polak, part of the time her traveling companion, will arrive here within ten days.

Summer Course in Puppeteering

Miss Fannie Goldsmith, who, with George Kegg and his wife, presented her marionette play of Cinderella at the Arts and Crafts hall to three large and appreciative audiences, has joined the faculty of the Arts and Crafts summer school. She will instruct a class in the whole art of puppeteering; the course to include the making of marionettes, the art of manipulating the puppets, the dressing of the mechanical figures, and the writing of marionette plays and the staging of puppet plays in the miniature theater devoted to these interesting manikins, whom Anatole France says "are the only actors that have a soul and leave anything to the imagination of the audience."

The puppet school will be held in the Arts and Crafts hall, where the miniature stage will be set up and where pupils may be drilled in manipulating the actual puppets used in the Cinderella play.

In this way pupils will be drilled thoroughly in the handling of puppets, one of the oldest and most delightful forms of the dramatic art.

Pupils will be taught how to write marionette plays, an art in itself, with a technique quite different from that of the drama of the grown-up theater.

Miss Goldsmith is one of the foremost marionette artists in this country. She is a pupil of Ellen Van Valkenberg, wife of Maurice Broune, formerly of the Little Theater of Chicago, and now head of the famous Cornish school in Seattle. While here she will write and stage a puppet play.

It is her desire to train a few puppeteers who will be qualified to join her company on the road next season.

Miss Goldsmith will be at the Pine Cone office in the afternoons from 2 to 3, where she will gladly meet all who are interested in marionettes. Those who are desirous of enrolling in the summer school may meet her at this office.

Valley Bank Purchases Building Site in Carmel

W. D. Mitchell, president of the Valley Bank, has purchased for the bank lots 1 and block 74, on the Southwest corner of Lincoln street and Ocean avenue, with the object of erecting a bank building on these premises, either now or later.

Carmel Graduates Monterey High School

Carmel students of the Monterey Union High School who will graduate this month are: Arline Payne, Margaret Gillett, Margaret Clute, Betty and Alice Greens, Helen Bailey and David Priuce.

Good-Bye Party For the Van Ripers

Mr. and Mrs. Charles King Van Riper were given a farewell party last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. G. Hooper. It was in the nature of a Dutch supper and was a jolly affair. Tables were arranged in cabaret style, and during the entire evening music was furnished by Moffett's orchestra. Professional fortune telling added to the enjoyment of the guests.

Carmel C. of C. for Street Work

There was a fair attendance at the monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening, and practically the whole session was devoted to discussion and action concerning local affairs.

One of the important matters determined upon was a resolution to the city board of trustees that there be created a district to improve all east and west streets and to take care of storm waters. This district would include Ocean and Santa Lucia avenues on the north and south and San Carlos avenue and the ocean on the east and west.

The business license proposition, referred back to the chamber by the city council, was revised so that there will be a flat rate of ten dollars a year for all businesses, including doctors, dentists and lawyers, and adequate provision is made for protection against peddlers.

A motion was carried requesting the city trustees to employ permanently a man and team to keep streets in repair and clean up streets and park spaces.

The chamber is interested in advertising the coming Forest theater plays, and to the end of assisting in the matter, President W. L. Overstreet appointed R. C. DeYoe and John B. Jordan to confer with W. T. Kibbler and Producer Hilliard concerning the financial details.

A motion was adopted continuing representation on the board of directors of Monterey Peninsula Inc., and John B. Jordan and R. C. DeYoe were appointed.

R. W. Johnson's resignation as secretary-treasurer was accepted. He was tendered a vote of thanks, and Peter Mawdsley was appointed to take his place.

Sometimes We Nod Even as Homer

With apologies to John B. Jordan, the Pine Cone makes amends for failure to publish in last week's issue an article concerning his very successful public reception at the Pine Inn to Madam Irene Pavloska, following her concert at the Forest theater. It was a most charming and interesting affair, well attended and highly appreciated by the recipient.

Building Activity Continues in Carmel

Carmel continues to lead all the communities of the Monterey peninsula in the number of buildings in course of construction. The total value of building permits issued by the city clerk during March, April and May reaches the impressive figure of $50,190. The figures for June will bring the total up to at least $75,000 for four months.

Japanese Girl is Bride of S. F. Man

There occurred an interesting wedding in Carmel last week, when Miss Karne Diguchi, for many years associated with the original Bluebird tea room, was united in marriage to a well-to-do Japanese merchant of San Francisco. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. G. Williams, rector of All Saints' church, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Hisa Irye.

Kismet Cast is Working Hard

Rehearsal tonight—
Eight o'clock—
Everybody!

It doesn't sound pleasant, perhaps, to leave the fire after dinner and prance out into the chilly dark. But at the Forest theater the winds are hushed and the stars are shining. Sparks drift up from the fire down near the entrance, and smoke weaves strangely through the branches. People in big coats gather round the battered old coffee pot, talking softly. On the stage rise scaffolding, rough boards, screens half painted, draperies.

This thing that looks like a Punch and Judy stage is going to be the Caliph's divan when it is finished; that man with the lantern is the goather practicing his entrance; the puppy is howling because his mistress has gone on the stage without him. That wall once held the image of the holy virgin, where Countess Cathleen knelt to pray, but now Marsinah plucks from it a rose to give her lover.

Everything is in the state of being made ready, shaping itself, crystallizing.

And those who are in it and of it now, are finding a particular thrill which belongs just to them, and which the audience who greet the finished product will never know.

Funds Provided For Fine Work

The moving picture show given in this city at the Manzanita Theatre on Friday evening of last week for the benefit of the Carmel Humane Society proved a success both financially and in the matter of entertainment, persons having pronounced it the best film show given for a long time. The music which was furnished by Walter Kelsey added much to the success, and his selections during the picture were most appropriate. The solos between the comedy and the feature were loudly applauded.

The house was filled to its capacity and approximately $100 will be added to the humane funds.

This society, which has as officers Miss Louise Conger, president; Mrs. C. Halsted Yates, secretary, and Miss McChesney, treasurer, has found that the home for animals opened in the Carmel Woods fills a much needed want; it has been patronized well and since its opening has had many boarders—cats, dogs, birds, and lately a turkey, much thought of by its owner, has been a star boarder.

It will be found a convenience when those waiting to go away for a few days or weeks, as they can leave their pets there with the assurance they will be well and carefully cared for; persons having animals about their places which annoy them, or who have animals that have served their usefulness or that old age is making miserable can find a solution to the problem by applying to the officers of the Animal Refuge. Miss Dorothy Bassett, who has charge of the home, is an animal lover and thoroughly understands the care of the sick and the well. The benefit proving such a success encourages the founders of the Home to give another entertainment in the near future. The management extends thanks to Mr. Cunningham, manager of the theatre, for his help.

A interesting party which has been vacationing here included O. J. Kern of Berkeley, Mrs. Louise Donaldson of Huntington Beach, E. S. Kern of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Esther Eymann of Jerseyville, Ill.; Miss Minnie Kern of Greencastle, Ind.

Pine Cone's Log of Literature & Art

Passing of Clarence Urmy

Clarence Urmy, prominent San Jose writer, dramatic critic and organist and teacher in the music department at the San Jose State Teachers' college, and well known in Carmel, died peacefully at a sanatorium in San Jose last Saturday following an illness of slightly over a week. Urmy was stricken while lunching with his brother, Percival Urmy, a week ago last Friday. He returned to the teachers' college, however, where he attempted to teach his class. His condition became such during the afternoon that he was unable to continue his teaching.

Clarence Urmy was born in San Francisco in 1858. For 30 years he had been organist at Trinity Episcopal church here. He was a poet and author of note and was also a prominent dramatic critic, having been associated with the San Jose Mercury Herald for many years. Three brothers, Percival, Frank and Rev. Ralph B. Urmy, the latter of the Bellview Methodist church of Pittsburgh, and a sister, Mrs. Frederick Seares, wife of Prof. Seares of the Mt. Wilson observatory, Pasadena, survive.

Drama Teachers' Head

A signal honor was bestowed upon Miss Virginia Sanderson, director of dramatic art at the San Jose State Teachers' college, when she was elected president of the Drama Teachers' Association of California at the closing session of the three-day convention of the association in Berkeley. The association is composed of teachers of drama, music and art from all sections of the state. Miss Sanderson will leave immediately after the close of the college year for Maine, where she has been invited to establish a community theater.

High Praise for O'Neill

"Eugene O'Neill, on the basis of work done so far shows the greatest promise of enduring fame of all the writers in modern America," declared Dr. T. K. Whipple of the University of California.

A keen sense of the theatrical and dramatic, an ever-present sense of the irony of life and a supreme ability to make people express their feelings and character in concentrated moments on the stage are the outstanding characteristics of O'Neill's work, as stressed by Whipple.

His themes, taken largely from the life of sailors, farmers and lower classes in the city, are taken from his exceedingly adventurous life. After a sketchy education he shipped to sea as a sailor, adventured in Central and South America, tried various work in this country and finally went to Harvard and studied playwriting. He married an English wife and lived in a lighthouse.

The fact that he has done such significant work already though he is but 35 years old, Whipple considered significant. His earlier plays were "shockers," and while this quality is decidedly toned down in his latest plays it is still much in evidence. While his early characters speak like those from Dunsany those in his later plays use solely the vernacular.

Whipple considers "Anna Christie" O'Neill's best play so far, though it is less productive of comment. "The Emperor Jones" is one of the most interesting of his works in its bold and successful experimentation. "Beyond the Horizon" and "The Hairy Ape," his latest, both rank with the preceding as his best work. In the latter O'Neill successfully invades the camp of the impressionistic moderns, since the play is subjective and symbolical.

California Has Special Interest in Monroe Fete

The Monroe Centennial

Why it is particularly appropriate that the one hundredth anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine should be celebrated in California this summer is set forth by Robert Glass Cleland in "A History of California," where he points out that one of the three cardinal elements of President Monroe's message to Congress in 1823 was clearly to prevent Russian advance into California.

One who already had a stronghold at Sitka, Alaska, had his eye on the southern reaches of the Pacific Coast of North America. It is said that the speculations of Alexander von Humboldt and his glowing descriptions of the soil and climate of "New California," had given a new direction to the ambition of Russia and determined its Emperor to acquire an empire in America.

"The average American," as Dr. Cleland observes, "thinks of the Monroe Doctrine only in its relation to Hispanic America. But Monroe was not considering alone the welfare of the recently liberated Spanish colonies when he penned his famous message."

he was also thinking of the shadow of the great Russian Empire flung over Alaska and threatening the whole Pacific Coast.

"The challenge of Fort Ross (built by the Russians near Bodega in 1812), with its cannon, its high palisades, its farms, and herds of cattle—all tangible evidences of a permanent plan of colonization—was met by Monroe with the explicit announcement that the American continents were no longer subjects for future colonization by any European powers."

Carmel-by-the-Sea is growing faster today than ever before.

If you could purchase property today in Carmel-by-the-Sea at prices of a few years ago, you would hesitate before overlooking that opportunity.

you are offered the opportunity of buying Carmel property at "old prices." Suitable available land for subdivision in Carmel is about exhausted. The opportunity offered today may not occur again.

CARMEL WOODS

is the ninth addition to the constantly growing town of Carmel-by-the-Sea, the most celebrated center of art and letters on the Pacific Coast.

CARMEL WOODS is in the heart of the Monterey Peninsula, touching Carmel-by-the-Sea on one side and Pebble Beach on the other. Magnificent pines and oaks and luxuriant undergrowth make Carmel Woods a region of native loveliness, admirably adapted for the homes of those who love nature and find in the healthful climate, the romantic mission history and the cultured atmosphere of Carmel-by-the-Sea their ideal of a permanent dwelling place.

CARMEL WOODS is a residence subdivision, with reasonable restrictions recommended by the town trustees and town planning commission of Carmel-by-the-Sea. These restrictions are designed to assure every purchaser a congenial environment.

CARMEL WOODS is traversed by roads that wind through the pines and oaks, opening up vistas of irresistible charm, making the homesites accessible, and at the same time emphasizing the note of seclusion so dear to those who seek homes on the Monterey Peninsula. These roads are all forty feet wide and for twenty feet of their width they are surfaced and graveled.

Water in abundance and electricity have been brought to every homesite.

Individual lots can be purchased for as little as $350.00

Monterey Cypress; Interesting Facts

The Monterey cypress (Cupressus macrocarpa), a relative of the old world cypress tree (C. sempervirens) of the Egyptians and Romans, is one of the several other California conifers that grow naturally over very limited areas. The range of Monterey cypress is confined to about two miles of California coast south of Monterey bay, in a belt about 200 yards wide, extending from Cypress Point to Point Lobos.

There seems to be no evidence that it ever occupied a larger range, and that it once grew in a wider belt, part of which is now submerged. It does not appear that it is in imminent danger of soon disappearing from its rocky and sandy habitat, for it is constantly reproducing itself from seed. Moreover, the tree is extensively cultivated in the Pacific Coast from Washington to Lower California, while it is a familiar ornamental in European gardens, in mild climates of South America and in Australia and New Zealand. Its ability to thrive away from the coast and at elevations up to 2000 feet was tested nearly 20 years ago in the San Bernardino mountains by T. P. Lukens of Pasadena.

The longevity of this cypress has been long a matter of conjecture, with but little opportunity of determining the age of large trees, which are from 50 to 70 feet in height and from three to sometimes six feet in diameter. Fortunately last year the long looked for opportunity came of learning something definite about the age of these trees through E. L. Guppy of Pacific Grove.

The severe coastal storm of 1917 uprooted a number of medium and large-sized trees in the Cypress Point grove. As the trunks were being sawed into sections, Mr. Guppy counted the stump rings of three trees which respectively showed ages of 200, 250 and 300 years, the oldest tree having a trunk diameter of nearly six feet. Strangely enough, however, two other trees of unusually straight, thrifty growth showed respectively only 50 rings for a stump diameter of two feet, and 75 rings for a diameter of three feet. Evidently the Monterey cypress grows very rapidly in easily permeable soil, the situations occupied by the latter trees, and much more slowly in rocky situations, the sites occupied by the older trees cited.

Must Beware of Backward Step.

Dante tells us that the realm which lies just below the strata of honest industry and toil is the realm of deceit, occupied by the human wreckage of the vagrant and the petty criminal. Modern civilization would break down completely if men were to return to the animal era of treachery and lying.

EFFECTS OF SHADED LIGHTS ARE PLEASING

Shaded lamps and candles are becoming more and more popular for lighting purposes and the effects gained by their use are much more pleasing than the brilliant lighting formerly used. Little, if any, overhead lighting would be necessary in this living room. A pair of parchment-shaded torchiers on the table shed a soft glow sufficient for everything except reading, and a conveniently-placed table and lamp supply a good reading light when desired.

LET THE OFFICE SEEK THE MAN

Dr. Tully C. Knoles recently pointed out that "figures show that every president who has been elected since the time of Lincoln has spent more money in his campaign than did his losing competitors. In other words, any man can be elected to the presidency of the United States who can get more money for publicity lined up behind him than can his competitors."

It is difficult to see how this situation can be changed. Our republic is so immense that it costs an enormous lot of very hard cash simply to get one's name dinned into the ears of any appreciable number of the voters. And some of the disgust one feels when first considering such a fact is allayed when it is realized that history has shown only two ways of capturing supreme power—either buy your way in or fight your way in. On the whole, it's less depressing to watch a man buy his way in over your wishes than it is to watch him fight his way in over your body.

A TERRIBLE INDICTMENT

The Volstead law was strongly condemned recently in a sermon in St. John's Church, New York, by Rev. Thomas J. Ryan. This piece of legislation, he said, had resulted in immorality and crime which transcended any previous time. Among other things he said it had created the most deplorable home condition for the young.

"The evil influence surrounding our young people today," he said, "arises from legislation and so-called toleration which would not even be sponsored by pagan countries. While as Catholics we must subscribe to the laws of the nation and teach prompt and absolute obedience, we cannot but view with alarm the immorality arising from its drastic limitations. Heretofore fathers of families, unfortunately prone to the vice of liquor, were keen to hide it from their children and to discourage its use to others. But today the drinking of the forbidden beverage is considered a lark, the carrying of it a badge of distinction, and the making of it a fine art. Small children not only touch, taste, and handle it, but are even well acquainted with the necessary ingredients and the proportions."

"It is apparent that the whole social structure—the family, the unit, the basis of the state—is gradually but alarmingly being shaken and permeated with a disregard for all law. The results are found in murder, the slaying of friend by friend, the carrying of guns by men who were strangers to such weapons before. State paternalism is a failure. When men are educated to virtue and self-denial by a conviction in God's law and are not coerced by supposed moral legislation, the American family life, private and public, shall become rejuvenated."

EXAMPLE WORTHY OF EMULATION

Enterprise and public spirit at home, whether or not a community desires outside advertising and publicity, is to be highly commended. Long before Madam Irene Pavloska arrived here for her recent concert John B. Jordan of Pine Inn had made arrangements for a public reception to his and the town's guest, and the spirit which prompted the affair is one which might well be emulated.
